RUPPERT RUSSONIELLO JOINS CARNEGIE SCIENCE CENTER BOARD

EATON EXECUTIVE BRINGS YEARS OF MANAGEMENT EXPERIENCE

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 11, 2015 — Carnegie Science Center is welcoming Ruppert Russoniello to its Board. Russoniello is president of the Circuit Protection Division for Eaton’s Electrical Sector and is located in Moon Township. He is a 27-year veteran of Eaton.

Prior to his current role at Eaton, he served as vice president for the Global Markets Organization – Hydraulics group. He has also worked as plant manager, sales manager, and product manager for Eaton. Russoniello’s career began at Westinghouse Electric in industrial sales.

“Carnegie Science Center creates environments and experiences where children’s natural curiosity can uncover wonder in the world all around them,” Russoniello said. “I am convinced that this can help awaken a life-long passion for discovery and understanding, and I am honored to help make this experience accessible for children of all ages.”

Russoniello earned a bachelor’s degree in electrical engineering from Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken, NJ. He is a native of Point Pleasant, NJ.

Russoniello and his wife Nancy have four children: Donovan, 20; Erin, 18; Peyton, 16; and Cole, 13.

About Carnegie Science Center
Carnegie Science Center is dedicated to inspiring learning and curiosity by connecting science and technology with everyday life. By making science both relevant and fun, the Science Center’s goal is to increase science literacy in the region and motivate young people to seek careers in science and technology. One of the four Carnegie Museums of Pittsburgh, the Science Center is Pittsburgh’s premier science exploration destination, reaching more than 700,000 people annually through its hands-on exhibits, camps, classes, and off-site education programs.

About Carnegie Museums of Pittsburgh
Founded by Andrew Carnegie in 1895, Carnegie Museums of Pittsburgh is a collection of four distinctive museums dedicated to exploration through art and science: Carnegie Museum of Art, Carnegie Museum of Natural History, Carnegie Science Center, and The Andy Warhol Museum. Annually, the museums reach more than 1.2 million people through exhibitions, educational programs, outreach activities, and special events.
